

Dutchman's Breeches

Dicentra cucullaria

Dutchman's Breeches Are a native Michigan wildflower, that is also great for the woodland garden! They prefer shade and rich, organic, well-drained soil. The common name Dutchman's breeches derives from their white flowers that look like white breeches hanging on a clothesline. Flower April-May. Not a cut flower. Deer resistant. Protected in the state of Michigan. Ht: 4-8"

Shade to Partial Shade.
Available early spring.

